As a natural health practitioner, you may already have your hands full with managing your practice and your clients. This can make the process of deciphering thousands of supplementation options to create protocols seem somewhat daunting. In this 2-day seminar, attendees will learn support strategies from a panel of experts with diverse clinical specialties. The focus will be on introducing assessment strategies and step-by-step protocols that use homeopathy, nutrition, and botanical medicine. Speakers will present case studies and clinical pearls that are relevant to any integrative practice.

WHO IS THIS EVENT FOR?

- New graduates who are opening their own clinic or joining a practice
- Experienced practitioners who are expanding their use of integrative medicine
- Clinicians who are interested in learning foundational DesBio protocols and how to put them into practice
